THE DISSOLUTION PROCESS

The legal process of a divorce case can be very confusing to clients. The following presentation briefly outlines various parts of the case to help remove some of the mystery associated with the traditional adversarial legal process.

Keep in mind that if you reach agreement on your settlement between yourselves or through attorney negotiation or mediation, you can avoid the often devastating financial burden and emotional trauma of family court actions.

THE PETITION vs. THE DECREE OF DISSOLUTION

There is often a great deal of misunderstanding about the purpose of a Petition for Dissolution of Marriage. A case is started by filing two documents: a Summons, which gives the court jurisdiction over the party upon which it is served, and the Petition, which is simply a notice to the other party of the various items that you wish the court to deal with and the relief you are seeking.

The Petition, in and of itself, does not do anything other than outline those areas you wish the court to address. It will not automatically result in a divorce decree and can be written either specifically or generally. Sometimes, the attorney may elect to write a very general Petition so as to cover basic subject areas without getting into detail that may cause the other party to respond, thereby creating a more expensive process. Alternatively, the attorney may elect to make a much more detailed distribution of property. There are reasons for both and if you have any questions, you should feel free to ask why one method is selected over the other.

A Decree of Dissolution is the final document granting a dissolution of the marriage and stating the final terms of all the issues in the marriage like property, debts, the children's residence, etc. A Decree can only be obtained after:

- a. An Order of Default is entered against a party who has failed to respond to service of the Summons; or
- b. The parties reach an agreement and sign the final papers; or
- c. The parties go to trial where a judge makes a ruling and enters a Decree. A judge's ruling is often much less detailed or thought-out than an agreement between the parties. A trial is a disadvantage to both parties, but it's inevitable if a negotiated settlement is not reached.

THE 90-DAY WAITING PERIOD

There is a minimum 90-day waiting period which must elapse before you Decree of Dissolution can be entered and your marriage dissolved. This time period is measured from the date the Summons is served on the other party. You will not automatically be divorced on the 91st day. Before any Decree can be entered, either the parties must reach an agreement and sign papers, and Order of Default must be entered, or the parties must go to trial and have a judge decide the issues. The 90-day waiting period cannot be waived by agreement. Finalizing the divorce may require your presence in Court with your attorney, even if it is by agreement. However, there are some procedures that can be utilized where only written documentation is submitted.

PRELIMINARY RELIEF: TEMPORARY ORDERS

While your case is pending, you may request temporary relief from the Court such as a parenting plan, child support, spousal maintenance, possession and use of the family home, restraining orders and attorneys fees. Temporary restraining orders may include restraints against transferring, encumbering, concealing or disposing of assets, molesting or disturbing the peace of the other party or the children; entering the residence of the other party; removing the children from the jurisdiction of the Court; and incurring any community debts. All of these temporary measures are often referred to as Temporary Orders and they are designed to cover the period from the filing of the Motion for Temporary Orders until the Court either enters subsequent orders or a final Decree is entered.

SPOUSAL MAINTENANCE

Maintenance (also called alimony) may be ordered where there is a real need for it on the part of one party and the ability to pay on the part of the other. Marital misconduct is not considered in setting maintenance. Maintenance is sometimes awarded pending trial, but the Court is usually reluctant to award post-divorce maintenance except under appropriate circumstances. The law requires a Court to consider the following factors in determining whether to award maintenance:

- a. Length of the marriage;
- b. Education level of the parties;
- c. Employment histories of the parties;
- d. Age of the parties;
- e. Physical and emotional condition of the parties;
- f. Whether or not the party seeking maintenance is also receiving child support; and
- g. The standard of living established during the marriage.

While the above factors may justify the need to order maintenance, it is also dependent on the other party's ability to pay and is often a balance between the two competing needs. It is in the discretion of the trial court and there is no fast and sure rule in this area.

DIVISION OF PROPERTY AND DEBTS

As part of the dissolution, the Court makes a disposition of the property and liabilities of the parties, either community or separate, as appears "just and equitable" to the Court after considering all relevant factors. This means there is no basis to assume property and debts will automatically be split 50/50. There is also no basis to assume that property over which there is disagreement will be sold – that is very rarely ordered.

The factors to be considered by the Court in dividing property include:

- a. The nature and extent of the community property;
- b. The nature and extent of the separate property;
- c. The duration of the marriage; and
- d. The economic circumstances of each party at the time division of the property is to become effective, including:
 1. Awarding the family home to the party providing the primary residence of the children, or;
 2. Awarding more property to a party who lost income producing potential during the marriage or who simply has noticeably less income producing potential than the other party.

ATTORNEY'S FEES

The Court has the discretion in appropriate cases (where one party has the financial ability to pay and the other party has the financial need) to award attorney's fees. However, Washington's Courts sometimes display reluctance to award attorney's fees in the appropriate circumstances. Often when there is exceptional need, the Court will consider it, but it is not a sure thing.

TRIAL SETTING / SETTLEMENT CONFERENCE

If the other party responds by filing a written response to the Petition in the Court file, the case can only be resolved by voluntary dismissal, agreement or trial. All trials are to a judge only; there are no jury trials. If it appears that an agreement is not possible, your attorney will send in a Notice to Set for Trial. The timing of this notice is variable depending on the circumstances of the case, including the discovery process and other matters.

Once the notice is filed, the Court Administrator will send out a notice of Settlement Conference. This is scheduled about two to three months after the Notice to Set for Trial is filed. It is an opportunity for the parties to settle the case without going to trial with a judge who is not assigned to the case. If the parties reach an agreement, a record is made and the case is over. If they do not settle, the case is set for trial at a later date.

The trial date is set by the assigned judge. It is susceptible to being bumped by criminal cases or cases that are older in time. Therefore, it is sometimes hard to be sure a date is firm until just before the actual date.

FINALIZATION

After negotiation, Settlement Conference or trial, the attorneys will prepare the final documents, such as the Decree of Dissolution, Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and if applicable a Parenting Plan and Order of Child Support.

The Decree of Dissolution governs the parties' future relationship with regards to the assets and debts, custody, visitation and support of the children, and last but not least, dissolves the marriage. Not until the judge signs the Decree is the marriage actually dissolved.

As our client, the following services will be undertaken on your behalf:

1. An attorney will conduct an interview to ascertain and understand the nature of your situation. To maximize efficiency and save you unnecessary expense, trained legal assistants and/or legal interns may assist the attorney in the preparation of your case, particularly in answering Interrogatories, and preparing a Pre-trial Domestic Relations Settlement Conference Affidavit.

2. If you decide to pursue the action after the initial interview, payment of a deposit will be required, which includes the consultation fee and initial out-of-pocket costs. The amount of this deposit is usually in the range of $1,500.00 to $2,500.00 which includes the initial out-of-pocket costs for the filing fee ($250.00 filing fee, and approximately $35.00 for the service processor's fee - this may vary according to your particular fact situation. The fees charged will be determined primarily by the work performed in your case and will include the cost of the attorney, legal assistants, legal interns and secretarial services. An estimate of the fees will be given during your attorney interview based on the facts of your case.

3. Non-Contested Proceedings: Where there is no substantial disagreement with your spouse over the terms of the dissolution action, the proceeding may be referred to as non-contested. Services to be performed in a non-contested case include:

- a. Initial interview(s).
- b. Preparation and drafting of Summons and Petition for Dissolution, or Preparation, or drafting of a Response.
- c. Preparation of Parenting Plan.
- d. Preparation of Declaration in Support of Parenting Plan.
- e. Preparation of Order of Child Support.

- f. Preparation of Financial Statement.
- g. Preparation of Affidavits or Declarations as may be required by applicable Court rules or State law.
- h. Motion, Affidavit and Order of Default. (COURT APPEARANCE REQUIRED OF ATTORNEY)
- i. Preparation of Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law and Decree of Dissolution of Marriage, and notification to the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, and presentation at final Court hearing. (COURT APPEARANCE BY ATTORNEY AND CLIENT)
- j. Correspondence.
- k. Closing arrangements including preparation of forms or deeds, if necessary.

4. Contested Proceedings: A contested proceeding is one where the parties cannot reach an agreement regarding maintenance, and/or division of property and payment of debts, or any other aspects of the dissolution action. All of the services required for a non-contested action must be performed as well as additional legal proceedings. These additional services may include but are not limited to the following:

- a. Stipulation or Separation Contract
- b. Depositions - out of court testimonial proceedings
- c. Interrogatories -preparation, review of and/or answering
- d. Attendance at settlement conferences and negotiations
- e. Legal research and preparation of briefs
- f. Preparation of additional legal pleadings and documents, including a Pre-trial Domestic Relations Settlement Conference Affidavit
- g. Representation at Superior Court Pretrial Settlement Conference, if required by the Court

- h. Trial preparation
- i. Witness interviews
- J. Investigation and retaining of experts
- k. Additional conferences and telephone calls with client and opposing counsel

If requested or the facts warrant, a Restraining Order may also be prepared and entered. Because additional Affidavits must be prepared as required under Superior Court Rules and because a Court appearance is required, the securing of a Restraining Order will result in substantial additional attorney's fees and expenses.

5. Time Requirements and Procedure:

a. A Petition is drawn up by the attorney which is reviewed and signed by the client. It is then filed with the Court and served on the spouse. The spouse then has 20 days to make an appearance or hire an attorney and have that attorney make an appearance in the dissolution action. If the spouse does not make an appearance or hire an attorney, a Decree of Dissolution may be entered at the end of a ninety (90) day waiting period, granting everything that has been requested in the Petition.

b. If your spouse does make an appearance, the next step, if necessary, is that your attorney will bring the matter to a hearing before the Court on the question of what will happen to the assets, obligations, etc., of the parties during the time between the filing of the Petition and the obtaining of the Decree of Dissolution.

c. Your attorney must have all the facts and information in order to properly represent you. If the spouses do not cooperate in supplying information as to assets, it may be necessary for us to utilize various discovery devices as listed in paragraph 4 above.

d. If it is possible to reach an agreement, a Separation Contract may be prepared for both of the parties to sign, which will define the final outcome of all issues. This may involve negotiating between the spouses or having their attorney do the negotiating. If an agreement can be reached, the client and the attorney will appear at the Court hearing before the Judge or Court Commissioner and present the Separation Contract to the Court Commissioner or Judge for his or her review and ask the Judge or Court Commissioner to enter the Decree of Dissolution based on the Separation Contract, if the Judge approves the terms of the Separation Contract. The earliest a Decree of Dissolution can be obtained is ninety (90) days from the date that the spouse is served.

6. Correspondence, Telephone Calls and E-Mail: We send you copies of letters or documents which we send out or which are received by us. Through this means, you will have the same information which we have. Even though the papers or copies of letters discuss Court hearings or appearances, you need not appear in Court unless you receive a letter from us instructing you to be there. When something important happens with regard to your case, we will advise you immediately. If you have a question or need some advice or are concerned about your case, do not hesitate to e-mail or call our office and talk to either your attorney or the legal assistant working with you on the case. Since telephone consultations often take as much time as office consultations and correspondence, and since our billing is based partly on time expended on your behalf, please be aware time spent handling telephone calls & e-mails will be included in determining billings.

7. Person to Contact: Delivery of information/documentation or questions regarding your case should be directed primarily to the legal assistant assigned to your case.

WASHINGTON STATE CHILD SUPPORT SCHEDULE DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS

Definitions

Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, these definitions apply to the standards following this section. RCW 26.19.011.

Basic child support obligation: means the monthly child support obligation determined from the economic table based on the parties' combined monthly net income and the number of children for whom support is owed.

Child support schedule: means the standards, economic table, worksheets and instructions, as defined in chapter 26.19 RCW.

Court: means a superior court judge, court commissioner, and presiding and reviewing officers who administratively determine or enforce child support orders.

Deviation: means a child support amount that differs from the standard calculation.

Economic table: means the child support table for the basic support obligation provided in RCW 26.19.020.

Instructions: means the instructions developed by the Administrative Office of the Courts pursuant to RCW 26.19.050 for use in completing the worksheets.

Standards: means the standards for determination of child support as provided in chapter 26.19 RCW.

Standard calculation: means the presumptive amount of child support owed as determined from the child support schedule before the court considers any reasons for deviation.

Support transfer payment: means the amount of money the court orders one parent to pay to another parent or custodian for child support after determination of the standard calculation and deviations. If certain expenses or credits are expected to fluctuate and the order states a formula or percentage to determine the additional amount or credit on an ongoing basis, the term "support transfer payment" does not mean the additional amount or credit.

Worksheets: means the forms developed by the Administrative Office of the Courts pursuant to RCW 26.19.050 for use in determining the amount of child support.

Application Standards

1. Application of the support schedule: The child support schedule shall be applied:
 - a. in each county of the state;
 - b. in judicial and administrative proceedings under titles 13, 26 and 74 RCW;
 - c. in all proceedings in which child support is determined or modified;
 - d. in setting temporary and permanent support;
 - e. in automatic modification provisions or decrees entered pursuant to RCW 26.09.100; and
 - f. in addition to proceedings in which child support is determined for minors, to adult children who are dependent on their parents and for whom support is ordered pursuant to RCW 26.09.100.

The provisions of RCW 26.19 for determining child support and reasons for deviation from the standard calculation shall be applied in the same manner by the court, presiding officers and reviewing officers. RCW 26.19.035(1).

2. Written findings of fact supported by the evidence: An order for child support shall be supported by written findings of fact upon which the support determination is based and shall include reasons for any deviation from the standard calculation and reasons for denial of a party's request for deviation from the standard calculation. RCW 26.19.035(2).
3. Completion of worksheets: Worksheets in the form developed by the Administrative Office of the Courts shall be completed under penalty of perjury and filed in every proceeding in which child support is determined. The court shall not accept incomplete worksheets or worksheets that vary from the worksheets developed by the Administrative Office of the Courts. RCW 26.19.035(3).
4. Court review of the worksheets and order: The court shall review the worksheets and the order setting child support for the adequacy of the reasons set forth for any deviation or denial of any request for deviation and for the adequacy of the amount of support ordered. Each order shall state the amount of child support calculated using the standard calculation and the amount of child support actually ordered. Worksheets shall be attached to the decree or order or if filed separately, shall be initialed or signed by the judge and filed with the order. RCW 26.19.035(4).

Income Standards

1. Consideration of all income: All income and resources of each parent's household shall be disclosed and considered by the court when the court determines the child support obligation of each parent. Only the income of the parents of the children whose support is at issue shall be calculated for purposes of calculating the basic support obligation. Income and resources of any other person shall not be included in calculating the basic support obligation. RCW 26.19.071(1).
2. Verification of income: Tax returns for the preceding two years and current paystubs shall be provided to verify income and deductions. Other sufficient verification shall be required for income and deductions which do not appear on tax returns or paystubs. RCW 26.19.071(2).
3. Income sources included in gross monthly income: Monthly gross income shall include income from any source, including: salaries; wages; commissions; deferred compensation; overtime; except as excluded from income in RCW 26.19.071(4)(h); contract-related benefits; income from second jobs except as excluded from income in RCW 26.19.071(4)(h); dividends; interest; trust income; severance pay; annuities; capital gains; pension retirement benefits; workers' compensation; unemployment benefits; maintenance actually received; bonuses; social security benefits; disability insurance benefits; and income from self-employment, rent, royalties, contracts, proprietorship of a business, or joint ownership of a partnership or closely held corporation. RCW 26.19.071(3).

Veterans' disability pensions: Veterans' disability pensions or regular compensation for disability incurred in or aggravated by service in the United States armed forces paid by the Veterans' Administration shall be disclosed to the court. The court may consider either type of compensation as disposable income for purposes of calculating the child support obligation. See RCW 26.19.045.

4. Income sources excluded from gross monthly income: The following income and resources shall be disclosed but shall not be included in gross income: income of a new spouse or domestic partner or income of other adults in the household; child support received from other relationships; gifts and prizes; temporary assistance for needy families; Supplemental Security Income; general assistance; food stamps; and overtime or income from second jobs beyond forty hours per week averaged over a twelve-month period worked to provide for a current family's needs, to retire past relationship debts, or to retire child support debt, when the court finds the income will cease when the party has paid off his or her debts. Receipt of income and resources from temporary assistance for needy families, Supplemental Security Income, general assistance and food stamps shall not be a reason to deviate from the standard calculation. RCW 26.19.071(4).

VA aid and attendant care: Aid and attendant care payments to prevent hospitalization paid by the Veterans Administration solely to provide physical home care for a disabled veteran, and special compensation paid under 38 U.S.C. Sec. 314(k) through (r) to provide either special care or special aids, or both to assist with routine daily functions shall be disclosed. The court may not include either aid or attendant care or special medical compensation payments in gross income for purposes of calculating the child support obligation or for purposes of deviating from the standard calculation. See RCW 26.19.045.

Other aid and attendant care: Payments from any source, other than veterans' aid and attendance allowance or special medical compensation paid under 38 U.S.C. Sec. 314(k) through (r) for services provided by an attendant in case of a disability when the disability necessitates the hiring of the services or an attendant shall be disclosed but shall not be included in gross income and shall not be a reason to deviate from the standard calculation. RCW 26.19.055.

5. Determination of net income: The following expenses shall be disclosed and deducted from gross monthly income to calculate net monthly income: federal and state income taxes (see the following paragraph); federal insurance contributions act deductions (FICA); mandatory pension plan payments; mandatory union or professional dues; state industrial insurance premiums; court-ordered maintenance to the extent actually paid; up to five thousand dollars per year in voluntary retirement contributions actually made if the contributions show a pattern of contributions during the one-year period preceding the action establishing the child support order unless there is a determination that the contributions were made for the purpose of reducing child support; and normal business expenses and self-employment taxes for self-employed persons. Justification shall be required for any business expense deduction about which there is a disagreement. Items deducted from gross income shall not be a reason to deviate from the standard calculation. RCW 26.19.071(5).

Allocation of tax exemptions: The parties may agree which parent is entitled to claim the child or children as dependents for federal income tax exemptions. The court may award the exemption or exemptions and order a party to sign the federal income tax dependency exemption waiver. The court may divide the exemptions between the parties, alternate the exemptions between the parties or both. RCW 26.19.100.

6. Imputation of income: The court shall impute income to a parent when the parent is voluntarily unemployed or voluntarily underemployed. The court shall determine whether the parent is voluntarily underemployed or voluntarily unemployed based upon that parent's work history, education, health and age or any other relevant factors. A court shall not impute income to a parent who is gainfully employed on a full-time basis, unless the court finds that the parent is voluntarily underemployed and finds that the parent is purposely underemployed to reduce the parent's child support obligation. Income shall not be imputed for an unemployable parent. Income shall not be imputed to a parent to the extent the parent is unemployed or significantly underemployed due to the parent's efforts to comply with court-ordered reunification efforts under chapter 13.34 RCW or under a voluntary placement agreement with an agency supervising the child. In the absence of records of a parent's actual earnings, the court shall impute a parent's income in the following order of priority:

- (a) Full-time earnings at the current rate of pay;
- (b) Full-time earnings at the historical rate of pay based on reliable information, such as employment security department data;
- (c) Full-time earnings at a past rate of pay where information is incomplete or sporadic;
- (d) Full-time earnings at minimum wage in the jurisdiction where the parent resides if the parent has a recent history of minimum wage earnings, is recently coming off public assistance, general assistance-unemployable, supplemental security income, or disability, has recently been released from incarceration, or is a high school student;
- (e) Median net monthly income of year-round full-time workers as derived from the United States bureau of census, current population reports, or such replacement report as published by the bureau of census. (See "Approximate Median Net Monthly Income" table on page 6.)
RCW 26.19.071(6).

Allocation Standards

1. Basic child support: The basic child support obligation derived from the economic table shall be allocated between the parents based on each parent's share of the combined monthly net income. RCW 26.19.080(1).
2. Health care expenses: Health care costs are not included in the economic table. Monthly health care costs shall be shared by the parents in the same proportion as the basic support obligation. Health care costs shall include, but not be limited to, medical, dental, orthodontia, vision, chiropractic, mental health treatment, prescription medications, and other similar costs for care and treatment. RCW 26.19.080(2).

3. Day care and special child rearing expenses: Day care and special child rearing expenses, such as tuition and long distance transportation costs to and from the parents for visitation purposes, are not included in the economic table. These expenses shall be shared by the parents in the same proportion as the basic child support obligation. RCW 26.19.080(3).

4. The court may exercise its discretion to determine the necessity for and the reasonableness of all amounts ordered in excess of the basic child support obligation. RCW 26.19.080(4).

Limitations Standards

1. Limit at 45 percent of a parent's net income:
Neither parent's child support obligation owed for all his or her biological or legal children may exceed 45 percent of net income except for good cause shown.
 - a. Each child is entitled to a pro rata share of the income available for support, but the court only applies the pro rata share to the children in the case before the court.
 - b. Before determining whether to apply the 45 percent limitation, the court must consider the best interests of the child(ren) and the circumstances of each parent. Such circumstances include, but are not limited to, leaving insufficient funds in the custodial parent's household to meet the basic needs of the child(ren), comparative hardship to the affected households, assets or liabilities, and any involuntary limits on either parent's earning capacity including incarceration, disabilities, or incapacity.
 - c. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, possession of substantial wealth, child(ren) with day care expenses, special medical need, educational need, psychological need, and larger families. RCW 26.19.065(1).
2. Presumptive minimum support obligation: When a parent's monthly net income is below 125% of the federal poverty guideline, a support order of not less than fifty dollars per child per month shall be entered unless the obligor parent establishes that it would be unjust to do so in that particular case. The decision whether there is a sufficient basis to go below the presumptive minimum payment must take into consideration the best interests of the child(ren) and circumstances of each parent. Such circumstances can include leaving insufficient funds in the custodial parent's household to meet the basic needs of the child(ren), comparative hardship to the affected households, assets or liabilities, and earning capacity. RCW 26.19.065(2)(a).
3. Self-support reserve: The basic support obligation of the parent making the transfer payment, excluding health care, day care, and special child-rearing expenses, shall not reduce his or her net income below the self-support reserve of 125% of the federal poverty level, except for the presumptive minimum payment of fifty dollars per child per month or when it would be unjust to apply the self-support reserve limitation after considering the best interests of the child(ren) and the circumstances of each parent. Such circumstances include, but are not limited to, leaving insufficient funds in the custodial parent's household to meet the basic needs of the child(ren), comparative hardship to the affected households, assets or liabilities, and earning capacity. This section shall not be construed to require monthly substantiation of income. (See the Self-Support Reserve memorandum on the courts' website www.courts.wa.gov/forms and at www.WashingtonLawHelp.org.) RCW 26.19.065(2)(b).

4. Income above twelve thousand dollars: The economic table is presumptive for combined monthly net incomes up to and including twelve thousand dollars. When combined monthly net income exceeds twelve thousand dollars, the court may exceed the maximum presumptive amount of support upon written findings of fact. RCW 26.19.065(3).

Deviation Standards

1. Reasons for deviation from the standard calculation include but are not limited to the following:
 - a. Sources of income and tax planning: The court may deviate from the standard calculation after consideration of the following:
 - i. Income of a new spouse or new domestic partner if the parent who is married to the new spouse or the parent who is in a domestic partnership with the new domestic partner is asking for a deviation based on any other reason. Income of a new spouse or domestic partner is not, by itself, a sufficient reason for deviation;
 - ii. Income of other adults in the household if the parent who is living with the other adult is asking for a deviation based on any other reason. Income of the other adults in the household is not, by itself, a sufficient reason for deviation;
 - iii. Child support actually received from other relationships;
 - iv. Gifts;
 - v. Prizes;
 - vi. Possession of wealth, including but not limited to savings, investments, real estate holdings and business interests, vehicles, boats, pensions, bank accounts, insurance plans or other assets;
 - vii. Extraordinary income of a child; or
 - viii. Tax planning considerations. A deviation for tax planning may be granted only if child(ren) would not receive a lesser economic benefit due to the tax planning;
 - ix. Income that has been excluded under RCW 26.19.071(4)(h) if the person earning that income asks for a deviation for any other reason. RCW 26.19.075(1)(a)
 - b. Nonrecurring income: The court may deviate from the standard calculation based on a finding that a particular source of income included in the calculation of the basic support obligation is not a recurring source of income. Depending on the circumstances, nonrecurring income may include overtime, contract-related benefits, bonuses or income from second jobs. Deviations for nonrecurring income shall be based on a review of the nonrecurring income received in the previous two calendar years. RCW 26.19.075(1)(b).

- c. Debt and high expenses: The court may deviate from the standard calculation after consideration of the following expenses:
- i. Extraordinary debt not voluntarily incurred;
 - ii. A significant disparity in the living costs of the parents due to conditions beyond their control;
 - iii. Special needs of disabled child(ren); or
 - iv. Special medical, educational or psychological needs of the child(ren).
 - v. Costs anticipated to be incurred by the parents in compliance with court-ordered reunification efforts under chapter 13.34 RCW or under a voluntary placement agreement with an agency supervising the child. RCW 26.19.075(1)(c).
- d. Residential schedule: The court may deviate from the standard calculation if the child(ren) spend(s) a significant amount of time with the parent who is obligated to make a support transfer payment. The court may not deviate on that basis if the deviation will result in insufficient funds in the household receiving the support to meet the basic needs of the child or if the child is receiving temporary assistance for needy families. When determining the amount of the deviation, the court shall consider evidence concerning the increased expenses to a parent making support transfer payments resulting from the significant amount of time spent with that parent and shall consider the decreased expenses, if any, to the party receiving the support resulting from the significant amount of time the child spends with the parent making the support transfer payment. RCW 26.19.075(1)(d).
- e. Children from other relationships: The court may deviate from the standard calculation when either or both of the parents before the court have children from other relationships to whom the parent owes a duty of support.
- i. The child support schedule shall be applied to the parents and children of the family before the court to determine the presumptive amount of support.
 - ii. Children from other relationships shall not be counted in the number of children for purposes of determining the basic support obligation and the standard calculation.
 - iii. When considering a deviation from the standard calculation for children from other relationships, the court may consider only other children to whom the parent owes a duty of support. The court may consider court-ordered payments of child support for children from other relationships only to the extent that the support is actually paid.
 - iv. When the court has determined that either or both parents have children from other relationships, deviations under this section shall be based on consideration of the total circumstances of both households. All child support obligations paid, received, and owed for all children shall be disclosed and considered. RCW 26.19.075(1)(e).
2. All income and resources of the parties before the court, new spouses or domestic partners, and other adults in the household shall be disclosed and considered as provided. The presumptive amount of support shall be determined according to the child support schedule. Unless specific reasons for deviation are set forth in the written findings of fact and are supported by the evidence, the court shall order each parent to pay the amount of support determined by using the standard calculation. RCW 26.19.075(2).
3. The court shall enter findings that specify reasons for any deviation or any denial of a party's request for any deviation from the standard calculation made by the court. The court shall not consider reasons for deviation until the court determines the standard calculation for each parent. RCW 26.19.075(3).
4. When reasons exist for deviation, the court shall exercise discretion in considering the extent to which the factors would affect the support obligation. RCW 26.19.075(4).
5. Agreement of the parties is not by itself adequate reason for any deviations from the standard calculations. RCW 26.19.075(5).

Post-Secondary Education Standards

1. The child support schedule shall be advisory and not mandatory for post-secondary educational support. RCW 26.19.090(1)
2. When considering whether to order support for post-secondary educational expenses, the court shall determine whether the child is in fact dependent and is relying upon the parents for the reasonable necessities of life. The court shall exercise its discretion when determining whether and for how long to award post-secondary educational support based upon consideration of factors that include but are not limited to the following: age of the child; the child's needs; the expectations of the parties for their child(ren) when the parents were together; the child(ren)'s prospects, desires, aptitudes, abilities or disabilities; the nature of the post-secondary education sought and the parent's level of education, standard of living and current and future resources. Also to be considered are the amount and type of support that the child would have been afforded if the parents had stayed together. RCW 26.19.090(2).
3. The child must enroll in an accredited academic or vocational school, must be actively pursuing a course of study commensurate with the child's vocational goals and must be in good academic standing as defined by the institution. The court-ordered post-secondary educational support shall be automatically suspended during the period or periods the child fails to comply with these conditions. RCW 26.19.090(3).

Income exclusions are defined under INCOME STANDARD #4: Income sources excluded from gross monthly income. (See page 2.) Excluded income must be disclosed and listed in Part VIII of the worksheets.

Monthly Average of Income:

- If income varies during the year, divide the annual total of the income by 12.
- If paid weekly, multiply the weekly income by 52 and divide by 12.
- If paid every other week, multiply the two-week income by 26 and divide by 12.
- If paid twice a month (bi-monthly), multiply the bi-monthly income by 24 and divide by 12.

<http://www.dshs.wa.gov/dcs/Resources/Forms.asp>

If you impute income using one of the four methods, above, enter the amount in line 1f. Also, in line 26 of the Worksheets, explain which method you used to impute income and how you calculated the amount of imputed income.

If you cannot use any of the above methods, impute the parent's net monthly income using the table below, and enter the appropriate amount for the parent's age and gender on line 1f and on line 3. The table, below, shows net income, after deductions. So if you impute using this table, you will not enter any deductions on the worksheet under line 2. Leave lines 2a through 2i blank. Economic Table Instructions

To use the Economic Table to determine an individual support amount for each child:

- Locate in the left-hand column the combined monthly net income amount closest to the amount entered on line 4 of Worksheet (round up when the combined monthly net income falls halfway between the two amounts in the left-hand column);
- Locate on the top row the family size for the number of children for whom child support is being determined (when determining family size for the required worksheets, do not include child(ren) from other relationships); and
- circle the two numbers in the columns listed below the family size that are across from the net income. The amount in the "A" column is the basic support amount for a child up to age 11. The amount in the "B" column is the basic support amount for a child 12 years of age or older.

LINE 6, Proportional Share of Income: Divide the monthly net income for each parent (line 3) by the combined monthly net income (line 4) and enter these amounts on line 6. (The entries on line 6 when added together should equal 1.00.)

(The amounts entered on line 7 added together should equal the amount entered on line 5.)

LINE 8, Calculating low income limitations: Fill in only those that apply:

To calculate the low-income limitation standards in lines 8b and 8c, you will need to know the self-support reserve amount, which is 125 % of the current federal poverty guideline. As of February 2009, self-support reserve is $1,128. The guideline and self-support reserve change roughly annually. To check the current self-support reserve amount go to the courts' web site at: www.courts.wa.gov, or go to www.WashingtonLawHelp.org. Enter the self-support reserve amount in the space provided in line 8. (For more information, see Limitation Standard #2 on page 3 of the Definitions and Standards.)

8a. Is combined net income less than $1,000? If combined net monthly income on line 4 is less than $1,000, enter each parent's presumptive support obligation of $50 per child. Do not enter an amount on line 8a if combined income on line 4 is more than $1,000.

8b. Is monthly net income less than self-support reserve? For each parent whose monthly net income on line 3 is less than the self support reserve, enter the parent's presumptive support obligation of $50 per child. Do not use this box for a parent whose net income on line 3 is greater than the self-support reserve.

8c. Is monthly net income greater than self-support reserve? Subtract the self-support reserve from line 3 and enter this amount or enter $50 per child whichever is greater. Do not use this box if the amount is greater than the amount in line 7.

LINE 9, Each parent's basic child support obligation after calculating applicable limitations: For each parent, enter the lowest amount from line 7, 8a - 8c, but not less than the presumptive $50 per child.

(See page 2.) NOTE: The court order should reflect that health care, day care and special child rearing expenses not listed should be apportioned by the same percentage as the basic child support obligation.

Monthly Average of Expenses: If a health care, day care, or special child rearing expense is annual or varies during the year, divide the annual total of the expense by 12 to determine a monthly amount.
